

Adventist Men Minister Within the Pandemic

An Adventist men's project turned into a community outreach initiative for Rolleville, Exuma. The men from the Mount Thompson Seventh-day Adventist Church, Exuma started the roof repair of an elderly lady in that community three Sundays ago; but what they did not know was the impact it would make. The team of Adventist men were joined on week two of the project by other volunteers, consisting of carpenters from Rolleville, who were impressed to assist in the outreach effort. The project is now completed; but the group of men are further energized to continue further ministry on the island of Exuma. Mr. Leonard Sturup (one of the organizers of the initiative) would like to thank the sponsors and the men who assessed the work, participated in the repairs; and ensured that the project was completed.
